From the East
Julio Hernandez
Worshipful Master

Brethren;

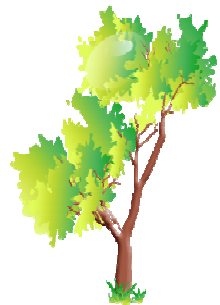

Greetings from the East. The events of the month have been a mixture of celebration and heavy hearts. We initiated four candidates on February 3; brothers Michael Johnson, Wylie Johnson, Christian Stebbins and Scott Kohlmann. However we also had a number of personal losses so far this year; RW Virgil Keen's wife, WB Tim Cole's brother in-law, Matt Davis's mother, our SMC Brother Scott Daly's brother, as well as my own father.

It leads one to contemplate about life and death and the meanings therein. The birth of an initiated brother who had a friend to conduct him through the obstacles along the way, just as our parents did for us. We passed through the 3, 5 and 7 steps of education and learned from the many that crossed our paths, for they are all the teachers of life. Finally when we are raised to the Sublime Degree we are taught to revere the Goodness and Majesty of the Creator by a contemplation of His wondrous works. Then in the latter years of our life we more often turn to introspection and become more sensitive to the Voice from within who will lead us with loving arms through the veil of the wondrous mysteries yet to come. Thus we take comfort in the knowledge that He created us in his image and we will all be reunited as immortal souls.

My brothers please be mindful of the upcoming dates, especially the St. Patty's Day party, the Scottish Rites presentation of the 2nd half of the MM Degree and our first wheel chair push of the year.

Worshipful Master

Julio Hernandez, W.M.

MORE LIGHT

A system of morality, veiled in allegory and illustrated by symbols.

This is the answer to the question, ‘What is Freemasonry?’ This is, and is intended to be, a quick answer which endeavours to describe that which, in fact, cannot be described in words of one syllable, indeed may not be described adequately in words at all. The central word of that phrase is ‘allegory’, and therein lies the clue: we may not name, in words, that which is only describable by allusion, inference, hints, signposts, codes.

The name may not necessarily impart the essence. No, the essence of Freemasonry may not be put into words. We are not dealing in facts. We can however get a little further by asking, not ‘What is Freemasonry?’ but ‘What does Freemasonry do?’. Freemasonry teaches moral lessons and self-knowledge, through participation in a progression of allegorical two-part plays.

In other words, by first coming to understand, and to know, ourselves, in order afterwards to attain moral lessons. In order to understand ourselves, and through that to claim a knowledge of ourselves, we have to concentrate on what makes us what we are.

In fact, a definition of what Freemasonry does might well be:

‘Freemasonry provides a path to be followed in progressing towards our own centre, to discover the mystery which is our Self, the beauty in our Self, and the mystery of the spark of divinity within us’.

Now we are talking about mysteries, those glories which can be imparted by decoding the allegories. What is more, in dealing with the mystery of Freemasonry, we are engaged in the pursuit of the oldest western mystery tradition of all.
